On or before October 1, 2025, each county is required to submit to the Office of Youth and Community Restoration (OYCR) a report on its Juvenile Justice Crime Prevention Act (JJCPA) and Youthful Offender Block Grant (YOBG) programs during the preceding year. For JJCPA this requirement can be found at Government Code \(GC\) Section 30061\(b\)\(4\)\(C\) and for YOBG it can be found at Welfare & Institutions Code Section \(WIC\) 1961\(c\). These code sections both call for a consolidated report format that includes a description of the programs and other activities supported by JJCPA and/or YOBG funds, an accounting of all JJCPA and YOBG expenditures during the prior fiscal year, and countywide juvenile justice trend data.

This template should be used to ensure your submission meets the accessibility standards published by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Plans must meet these standards for posting to the OYCR website. The standards are outlined here, Accessibility Conformance Checklists | HHS.gov.

Your submission will be posted to the OYCR website once it is confirmed to meets the accessibility standards. We encourage you to review your report for accuracy before sending it to the OYCR. Please review your submission for spelling and do NOT change the report form to a PDF document prior to submission.

Prior to submitting this report save the file using the following naming convention: "(County Name) 2025 JJCPO-YOBG Report." For example, Sacramento County would name its file "Sacramento 2025 JJCPO-YOBG Report".

Once the report is complete, attach the file to an email and send it to: OYCRgrants@chhs.ca.gov.

Analysis of Countywide Trend Data

Provide a summary description or analysis, based on available information, of how the programs, placements, services, strategies or system enhancements funded by JJCPO-YOBG have, or may have, contributed to, or influenced, the juvenile justice data trends identified in this report. Government Code Section 30061(b)(4)(C)(iv) & WIC Section 1961(c)(3):

JJCPO/YOBG programs in Alameda County specifically target youth under probation supervision in the community, those youth at imminent risk of removal from their homes, youth needing intensive supervision, and youth returning from the Secure Track Program. ACPD also provides re-entry services to youth at our residential camp program and youth released from custody at Juvenile Hall. ACPD has also been committed to expanding and building support services aimed to improve system changes that impact at-promise youth, and their families. In addition, JJCPO/YOBG has helped ACPD broaden our array of services to reduce the number of youth in out-of-home placements, to provide the least restrictive level of placement, when out-of-home placement is necessary; and promote family preservation and family reunification.

Alameda County Probation also has a restorative justice program, Restorative Justice for Oakland Youth (RJOY) that holds youth accountable for their behavior and provides them with the support they need to move forward in a positive way. The program is evidence-based and provides education and training to incarcerated youth. It actively engages families, communities, and systems to repair harm and prevent re-offending. It identifies specific barriers to re-entry for individual youth and develops strategies to overcome barriers and facilitates accountability strategies to encourage youth to take responsibility and make amends for harm caused. The program is designed to link work begun while the youth is detained with a seamless continuum of restorative justice care, out of custody.

The Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD) has a broad array of youth services resources that specifically target at-promise youth, youth on probation, and their families. ACPD contracts with numerous agencies that work together as the Resource Connection Network (RCN). In 2024, the RCN made 4,899 referrals.

Youth in Alameda County are assessed using the Youth Level of Service/Case Management Inventory (YLS/CMI), prior to disposition. The YLS/CMI helps deputy probation officers, youth workers, psychologists, and social workers identify the youth's major needs, strengths, barriers, and incentives; select the most appropriate goals for the youth; and produce an effective case management plan. The results of the risk/needs assessment, in addition to other relevant facts, are considered in making a recommendation to the Court regarding the youth's appropriateness for services while remaining in the home, and commitment to Camp, or placement.

Alameda County is the seventh most populous county in California with a population of approximately 1,510,271 residents. The County consists of 14 incorporated cities and several unincorporated communities. Oakland is the seat of County government and the largest city. The County is racially/ethnically diverse. The youth population (age 10-17) of the County is approximately 149,857 or 10 percent of the total population. Most of the youth referred to ACPD are from Oakland (46%) and Hayward (11%). Similarly, youth on formal supervision are more likely to reside in Oakland and Hayward, 42% and 16% respectively.

In 2024, there were 858 arrests by police in Alameda County. This represents a 10% decrease in arrests from 2023 when there were 951 arrests. Of the 858 arrests reported by police in 2024, misdemeanor arrests accounted for 333 arrests (39%), felony arrests for 491 arrests (57%), and status arrests accounted for 34 arrests (4%). There were 806 referrals to the Alameda County Probation Department. Of the 806 referrals to the Alameda County Probation Department, petitions were filed for 470 (58%), [REDACTED] cases were closed, and [REDACTED] case was diverted.

In 2024, there were 470 petitions filed. Most petitions were filed against males 396 (84%), while the remaining petitions were filed against females 74 (16%). The greatest percentage of petitions were filed against African American youth 249 (53%) compared to 174 (37%) for Latino youth, 18 (4%) for White youth, and 29 (6%) for youth with an unknown racial/ethnic group. Most petitions filed resulted in a youth being placed on wardship probation, 313 (67%). Of those youth placed on wardship probation, 248 (79%) were placed in their home or the home of a relative, 33 (11%) were placed in a “other” private facility, and 32 (10%) were placed in a secure county facility.

- Services and Supplies includes expenditures for services and supplies necessary for the operation of the project (e.g., lease payments for vehicles and/or office space, office supplies) and/or services provided to participants and/or family members as part of the project's design (e.g., necessities such as food, clothing, transportation, and shelter/housing; and related costs).

- Professional Services includes all services provided by individuals and agencies with whom the County contracts. The county is responsible for reimbursing every contracted individual/agency.
- Community-Based Organizations (CBO) includes all expenditures for services received from CBO's. NOTE: If you use JJCBA and/or YOBG funds to contract with a CBO, report that expenditure on this line item rather than on the Professional Services line item.
- Fixed Assets/Equipment includes items such as vehicles and equipment needed to implement and/or operate the program, placement, service, etc. (e.g., computer and other office equipment including furniture).
- Administrative Overhead includes all costs associated with administration of the program, placement, service, strategy, and/or system enhancement being supported by JJCBA and/or YOBG funds.

The primary purpose of funding in this program goes directly to the Resource Connection Network (RCN). The Alameda County Probation Department, in collaboration with community-based organizations formed the RCN. The RCN providers offer- a comprehensive set of preventative youth services aimed at safeguarding the youth in Alameda County from involvement in the youth justice system. These services encompass a wide range of initiatives designed to address various aspects of youth development and well-being. Such programs include: Diversion Programs, Life Skills Education, Restorative Justice, Therapeutic Counseling, Case Management Services, Positive Attendance Case Management, Civic and Social Engagement, Parenting Classes, Group/Network Intervention, Mentoring, Substance Misuse, Education, and Employment. By providing these services, the Alameda County Probation Department strives to keep youth out of the youth justice system, fostering their personal growth and development while contributing to the well-being of the community. For youth who are already involved in the criminal justice system but are still within the community, the Alameda County Probation Department extends the very same services available through the -Resource Connection Network. In addition to the existing preventative services, these justice-involved youth have access to specialized intensive case management wraparound services. These wraparound services adopt a holistic approach to service delivery, aiming to comprehensively support youth in various areas of their lives, including but not limited to: Substance Abuse, Mental Health, Education, Employment, Leisure Time, Life Skills, and Personal Development. These wraparound services recognize that justice-involved youth often face complex and interconnected challenges. By addressing these various aspects of their lives, the Alameda County Probation Department aims to support their rehabilitation and reintegration into the community, ultimately reducing the likelihood of further involvement in the criminal justice system and removal from the community. This comprehensive approach seeks to empower these youth to make positive choices, lead productive lives, and contribute positively to society.

Positive Youth Development Community Supervision for Intensive Probation is a regional based, risk and gender responsive supervision model. The regional units offer enhanced program services for males and females, which integrates the work of Deputy Probation Officers (DPO), local law enforcement agencies and other youth-service agencies such as schools, recreation departments and community-based organizations. These collaborative efforts enable a multi-disciplinary team to solve problems by 1) working with clients and their families, 2) monitoring compliance with probation conditions by increased contacts with random evening visits, and 3) ensuring minors pay restitution to victims and complete community service orders. Youth supervised by Deputy Probation Officers assigned to the Positive Youth Development Community Supervision participate in a broad range of pro-social activities, such as educational and recreational field trips and community service. All youth receive program referrals individually tailored to their case plans. Youth and their families receive concrete funds to address some of their immediate needs, including transportation, food, utilities, and housing. Probation staff are assigned to service specific geographic areas in partnership with community policing areas. The goal of Positive Youth Development Community Supervision is to marshal the resources of the client's family, school, and neighborhood to optimize preventive services and eliminate behaviors leading to chronic delinquency. DPO offices -cover the entire county serving the North, South, and Central regions. Youth in Alameda County Probation are assessed using The Youth Level of Service/Case Management Inventory™ (YLS/CMI™), prior to disposition. The YLS/CMI is a risk/needs assessment, and a case management tool combined into one convenient system. The YLS/CMI helps deputy probation officers, youth workers, psychologists, and social workers identify the youth's major needs, strengths, barriers, and incentives; select the most appropriate goals for the youth; and produce an effective case management plan. Youth who score high on the YLS/CMI are offered enhanced program services, which integrates the work of deputy probation officers, local law enforcement agencies and other youth-service agencies such as schools, recreation departments and community-based organizations. The Alameda County Probation Department is committed to preserving, strengthening, and assisting families within their communities. Youth and families are provided with community-based services and interventions, as well as intensive supervision services to include monthly contact by the probation officer up to three times per month. Deputy Probation Officers provide intensive probation supervision for youth whose overall total risk level on the Youth Level Services/Case Management Inventory (YLS/CMI) is High or Very High and youth returning from the Youth Secure Track commitment program. DPOs work with youth and their families to develop case plans that target the risks identified in the YLS/CMI. DPOs refer youth to mentoring groups and workshops on a variety of life skill topics. DPOs occasionally provide supervised pro-social activities including college tours and educational field trips. The DPOs also collaborate with a Behavioral Health Clinician from the County's Behavioral Health Care Services Agency, who assists in identifying youth with special mental health needs.

The Youth Advisory Council (YAC) serves to increase the involvement of youth voice in the Alameda County youth justice system through an organized infrastructure that aids youth in developing their leadership and advocacy skills. The YAC is centering youths' lived experiences and needs to inform and serve in an advisory capacity to the Juvenile Justice Delinquency Prevention Commission (JJDPC) and in partnership with probation and collaborative community partners to improve and shape the overall youth justice system. The YAC engages youth ages 17-25 who have had some level of system involvement and create opportunities for them to be involved in system change efforts led by various stakeholders in the youth justice system. The youth are supported through coaching and professional development. The intent is to accomplish ACPD's vision of inclusion of the youth voice in system decisions during and beyond this YAC grant period. The YAC helps support the JJDPC as well as works directly with Probation to target system challenges and the underlying factors that are at the root of community needs – with a focus on the youth justice system. This holistic approach – which seeks to alter social, economic, political, and educational conditions for youth – has the potential to create more sustainable change than do more traditional, “individual-level” strategies.

Youth UpRising (YU) is a multi-pronged community transformation hub located in East Oakland. YU's mission is to transform East Oakland into a healthy and economically robust community by developing the leadership of youth and young adults and improving the systems that impact them. YU provides integrated services to youth and young adults, ages 13 to 24 years old through three core areas: Career & Education (C&E), Health & Wellness (H&W), and Arts & Expression (A&E). In addition to daily trauma-informed programming, YU operates a social enterprise, which provides opportunities for youth to receive robust sector-specific skills training in high-demand jobs like food and hospitality management, landscaping, and digital arts. YU believes that through comprehensive programming and direct support from caring adults, youth can achieve greatness, develop greater social-emotional skills and tools, and therefore minimize risky behaviors that are detrimental to their success.

Addressing children's mental health needs since 1952, East Bay Agency for Children today invests over $16.5 million annually in over 16,000 East Bay children and families through a comprehensive continuum of services designed to reduce the incidence and impact of childhood trauma and adverse experiences resulting in immediate and long-term life improvement for those children and their families. EBAC's programs are particularly effective as they benefit from their staff and agency experience, knowledge, cultural humility, and language competence in serving children and communities disproportionately impacted by poverty, violence, marginalization, loss of loved ones, and other forms of trauma. EBAC delivers services that:
Build Resiliency to help children and families protect themselves against long term harm from chronic exposure to adversity. Aid in Recovery by treating children exhibiting traumatic stress symptoms and emotional or behavioral disorders. Prevent the risk of childhood adverse experiences.

To optimize their efforts, they offer a variety of services that complement one another to effectively address the complex needs of children and family. To reduce barriers in receiving services, they deliver most of their services in schools and community locations where children and families already congregate. Additionally, staff are primarily from the communities they serve, which helps children and families feel comfortable and trusting of those helping. And finally, they conduct their work within a trauma-informed framework, understanding that children exposed to trauma see the world differently and are often misunderstood. Program areas include intensive therapeutic health, school-based behavioral health, and family and community wellness.

Since midnight basketball returned to Oakland in Summer 2018, the Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD) has been a proud sponsor and supporter of the league. The Oakland Midnight Basketball League (OMBL) is a violence-reduction and youth-development program designed to: 1) provide a safe activity for players and attendees during hours when shootings increase in Oakland; 2) connect players and attendees to needed resources and services in the community; and 3) foster positive relationships between players, their peers, and adult mentors. Each season, youth, and young adults ages 16-25 play on one of 12-16 teams over a period of eight weeks. Games take place between the hours of 9:00pm and 1:00am, and players are required to attend a life skills workshop for one hour before their game each night. Life skills workshops are intended to connect players to resources and opportunities that can directly benefit them outside the league, in areas such as employment, legal aid, and parenting. Players and spectators also receive a free meal each week provided by a lineup of food trucks. Operation of the OMBL is a partnership between four public entities: The Alameda County Probation Department, the Oakland Safety Impact Table, the Oakland Police Activities League, and Oakland Unite, a division within the City of Oakland's Human Services Department. The Alameda County Probation Department is a primary funder of the league and recruit youth on probation to play in the league. The Oakland Safety Impact Table, a group of representatives from public and private entities who have the goal of increasing safety in Oakland, is responsible for all fundraising, communication, evaluation, and purchasing activities. The Oakland Police Activities League hires and oversees league staff members, recruit players, develops team rosters and game schedules, coordinates referees, and oversees all game-day logistics. Lastly, Oakland Unite's Violence Prevention Network Coordinator leads all player workshops, delivering content and inviting individuals from relevant organizations to speak each week. Oakland Unite's violence interrupters also recruit individuals for participation in the league.

Gender Cognitive–Behavioral Therapy/Treatment (CBT) is a specific problem-focused approach to helping people identify and change the dysfunctional beliefs, thoughts, and patterns of behavior that contribute to their problems. Its underlying principle is that thoughts affect emotions, which then influence behaviors. CBT combines two very effective kinds of psychotherapy: cognitive therapy and behavioral therapy. Cognitive therapy concentrates on thoughts, assumptions, and beliefs. With cognitive therapy, people are encouraged to recognize and to change faulty or maladaptive thinking patterns. Cognitive therapy is a way to gain control over inappropriate repetitive thoughts that often feed or trigger various presenting problems.

California Welfare and Institutions Code Section 858, effective July 2023, mandates that probation departments ensure eligible youth in detention have access to rigorous postsecondary academic and career technical education, in partnership with local education agencies and public colleges. Similarly, California Education Code Section 54747 affirms that pupils are eligible for enrollment until they receive a diploma or equivalent. However, once a youth obtains their high school diploma or its equivalent, the Alameda County Office of Education (ACOE) is no longer eligible to receive state education funding to support that individual. This creates a significant service gap for youth in custody who are ready to pursue postsecondary education but remain under the jurisdiction of the youth justice system.
In alignment with these mandates, the postsecondary program is designed to serve eligible youth at the Juvenile Justice Center (JJC), Camp Wilmont Sweeney (CWS), and Firm Roots Academy (Secure Track). These facilities house youth who, while having completed their secondary education, continue to require structured educational opportunities to support their rehabilitation and long-term success.

This agreement between ACPD and the Alameda County Office of Education (ACOE) establishes a formal framework to expand and institutionalize postsecondary educational programming for justice-involved youth. The agreement provides for the development of individualized case plans aligned with each youth's educational goals, the assignment of dedicated staff to facilitate college access and preparation, and continued access to career technical education. Additionally, it includes the implementation of milestone-based stipends to encourage sustained academic engagement. ACOE's program connects students with local community colleges, vocational institutions, and universities, offering comprehensive support services such as academic and career counseling, assessments, enrollment and financial aid assistance, and transfer planning. ACOE also utilizes a success tracking system to monitor key performance indicators—including attendance, academic progress, graduation rates, and post-program outcomes—to guide continuous program improvement.

At its core, the program is designed to empower justice-involved youth to make informed decisions about their futures. Interactive resources, mentorship, and structured planning tools guide students as they set and pursue individualized education and career goals.

ACOE serves as a liaison between the California Department of Education and Alameda County's 18 public school districts. In addition to this role, ACOE functions as an alternative education school district, offering specialized programs for the county's most vulnerable students, including justice-involved youth. ACOE directly operates Court Schools at the JJC, CWS, and Firm Roots Academy, ensuring that in-custody youth have access to education despite systemic barriers.

ACOE is uniquely qualified to provide post-secondary educational support services for in-custody youth and young adults through specialized programs, partnerships with local colleges, and tailored transition services that facilitate academic and career pathways. Since July 2024, ACOE has been delivering post-secondary educational support to in-custody graduates while assisting high school students in the Court Schools working toward college enrollment.

The City of Oakland's Department of Violence Prevention (DVP) provides violence prevention and intervention services in three areas: Gun/Group/Gang Violence Response, Gender-Based Violence Response, and Community Healing and Restoration. DVP provides direct services in crisis response and family coaching, and funds Community-Based Organizations (CBOs) to support those affected by violence. As part of the Community Healing and Restoration strategy, DVP will coordinate Town Nights for residents, offering safe and positive spaces for community building and promoting peace. The events will provide free food, entertainment, various activities for all attendees, and will employ community members to operate the events. Town Nights will take place on six consecutive Friday evenings from 5pm to 10pm at nine locations across Oakland. To support violence prevention and community restoration, the Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD) will assist DVP by sponsoring numerous Town Nights. Locations are identified below:

- Verdese Carter Park, Josie De La Cruz Park or Fruitvale Transit Center, Carter Gilmore Park, Elmhurst Park, Lincoln Square Park or Clinton Park, San Antonio Park, Acorn Learning Center, Hoover Elementary School, and Arroyo Viejo Park

Moreover, DVP implements the prevention and intervention (“Lifeline”) components of Oakland’s Ceasefire-Lifeline strategy. DVP violence interrupters and life coaches relentlessly pursue individuals at greatest risk of death or serious injury from group violence to engage them in intensive life coaching services that support changes in their mindsets and behaviors to avoid future violence. ACPD is crucial to the Ceasefire-Lifeline strategy, joining quarterly call-in meetings and maintaining close communication with the Oakland Police Department.

In addition to supporting Town Nights, ACPD will collaborate with DVP to support the youth life coaching program. Life coaches work closely with clients to identify factors driving their participation in violence, develop and implement strategies to reduce risk of violence, and build the safety nets and support needed to increase protective factors. Life coaches also connect clients to organizations funded by DVP to provide resources including housing, employment, and relocation services. This intensive program model requires life coaches to have daily communication with their clients over a period of at least 12 months to facilitate positive behavior change. The life coaches funded through this agreement will work with school-aged individuals (ages 21 and under).

The success of violence prevention services in Oakland relies on the close collaboration between ACPD and DVP. Both share the goal of fostering a safe, inclusive, and healthy community by reducing crime and violence. Together, both are working to create positive change by providing gathering spaces through community outreach, fostering connections across race, culture, and generations, and enhancing peace-building skills.

In September 2020, the passage of California Senate Bill 823 (SB 823) marked a major shift in the state's youth justice system by gradually closing the state-run Division of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) and transferring responsibilities for youth rehabilitation to counties. In response, Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD) and the SB 823 Subcommittee developed an SB 823 Realignment Plan, which was approved by the Board of Supervisors on November 16, 2021. As part of the realignment plan, ACPD committed to partnering with community-based organizations to provide a comprehensive a range of re-entry services, including mental health support for youth housed at Juvenile Hall and Camp Wilmont Sweeney. With this commitment, ACPD aims to mitigate the adverse effects of confinement and deprivation of in-custody youth that can hinder them from successfully reintegrating into the community.
To address this concern, ACPD partnered with Special Service for Groups, Inc. who is providing occupational therapy services in the Bay Area through Occupational Therapy Training Program (OTTP-SF). OTTP-SF has a multidisciplinary team which includes occupational therapists, psychotherapists, case managers, and a psychiatric nurse practitioner capable of providing occupational therapy services. OTTP-SF provides occupational therapy services that aim to enhance the mental and physical health of the youth by addressing their trauma, promoting self-regulation, reducing violent behavior, and addressing significant gaps in mental health services. OTTP-SF provides a comprehensive approach that fosters resilience and equips youth with necessary skills for successful community reintegration.

Research has demonstrated the effectiveness of OTTP-SF's unique methods in applying occupational therapy to justice involved youth and is the only organization that specializes in helping justice-involved youth develop self-regulation, self-management, and goal-setting skills, enabling them to assess their emotional competencies and enhance their problem-solving abilities. OTTP-SF provides a holistic approach that includes care coordination and group, individual and milieu support sessions which have been proven effective in supporting justice-involved youth.

OTTP-SF provide services in a community setting, meeting youth where they are, which enhances accessibility and engagement. OTTP-SF is committed to providing these unique services to this population with highly skilled, evidence-based, motivating, and engaging interventions that offer youth opportunities to learn about themselves and build skills in a safe and supportive way. OTTP-SF has demonstrated success in achieving positive outcomes such as decreased recidivism and increasing youth's self-regulation. Their client-centered approach with racially and trauma informed perspectives focus on the needs and strengths of each youth to promote personal growth and development.

Hayward Adult School (HAS), established in 1934 as part of the Hayward Unified School District (HUSD), provides a variety of educational opportunities, career and technical education, and parenting and employability skills for students to advance their academic achievement and professional development. The Raising Leaders Workshops and Internships Program (Raising Leaders) is one of the HAS's specifically designed programs that focuses on the Alameda County juvenile population and includes students attending alternative education schools or traditional high schools, students in 8th grade that are 14 years of age, youth referred by the Resource Connection Network (RCN), Deputy Probation Officers, or Social Workers. The goal is to provide opportunities for youth to gain life skills, such as interview and employability skills, financial awareness, career exploration and education opportunities, and to participate in paid internships that will mark the beginning of their career development.
The program is divided into two components: workshops and internships. The workshop component consists of eight weekly workshops per cohort, serving 200 youth each fiscal year. Upon completion of the workshop series, youth will be selected impartially via a live-recorded raffle to participate in the internship component. Each fiscal year, a total of 145 internship spots will be allocated among the youth who successfully complete the workshop series. The program additionally offers year-round internship opportunities for the in-custody youth under the supervision of Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD), providing viable access for them to expand their professional growth despite tangible barriers.

For the past four years, ACPD and District 2 have partnered with HAS for its Raising Leaders program to help youth in the County to further succeed academically and professionally. The program has expanded and reached students in 14 different school districts since 2020. Cumulatively, a total of 831 students were able to gain life skills, as well as five school credits or 16 hours of community service learning upon their completion of the workshop series, and 464 participants were placed in paid internship to broaden their career horizons.

The recognized success of Raising Leaders affirms the County's collaboration with HAS for its continuation of services to youth across cities in the County. In addition to ACPD and District 2, District 1, District 4, and District 5 are also joining to support this endeavor, assisting the youth population in the County to advance in the areas of education and career development. Through joint efforts, the County continues to meet its shared vision of creating a safe, livable, thriving, and resilient County for children, youth, and families.

Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD) partnered with George Mason University's (GMU) Center for Advancing Correctional Excellence to develop the Elevate Academy Influencers Training Program. This program is a comprehensive training academy that instructs community-based organizations serving youth populations on how to build capacity and successfully implement effective evidence-based practices.
The Elevate Academy has a hybrid model with three in-person sessions and five virtual sessions. The goals of the academy are to (1) increase understanding and use of evidence-based practices, (2) enhance program capacity to become data-driven and improve service delivery on an ongoing basis, and (3) build collaborative partnerships with ACPD and other reentry providers. GMU surveys participants at the end of the program to obtain feedback on the Academy.

The truancy prevention and intervention program is a collaboration between Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD) and Alameda County office of Education (ACOE) to address truancy issues with students who attend school in Alameda County.
The program provides students with comprehensive case management services that address the root causes of chronic absenteeism to empower the truant students to remain in school and achieve academic success. ACPD is responsible for the oversight and delivery of services to truant youth residing in Alameda County designated as the "target population." ACPD and ACOE have identified student truancy to be an unmet need for the target population. ACOE has developed a comprehensive truancy program that will target the youth most in need of support. ACOE has the connections to, and the collaborations with the local school districts to successfully implement the truancy program throughout Alameda County.
ACPD is dedicated to partnering with community partners and school districts to support truant students in attending school and re-engaging in their education. The truancy program will offer individualized case management services to truant students demonstrating chronic absenteeism patterns. ACOE will also collaborate closely with community partners to deliver services to students that have been identified through their school attendance records. ACPD and ACOE will actively work together on solutions to ensure this program is addressing the needs of the students to improve their school attendance.
